

May 6, 1980 - Wed.

Dear Vickie and Jimmy,

I am sitting under the hair dryer this afternoon as dad just took Diane home. She has been over all week as she has a little cold and didn't go to school. She will be here tomorrow also, and I am glad because all day it is going to be the grand celebration of our new Covered Ballroom Square - phase 2. Mary will come over for dinner and we will all go down to see the fireworks, altho we probably will be able to see them from our house.

Dad is going back to work for Alan Kuzan and Arnold, just to help out on some of the details he knows about. Alan supposedly has been told he has a very short time to live, but he feels and looks just wonderful, so he doesn't believe it and I don't either.

Jimmy, if you don't want to go out on the ship, don't do it. The world situation is terrible, and you would be very lonesome without Vickie.

 Uncle Harold is retired now and is getting along fine. He and Aunt Stella went to the ocean this week and while was the time for digging clams. The crowd there was unbelievable, but they each got one clam.
